WHAT'S IN IT FOR ME?

"While no one build is the same, a lot of the day-to-day challenges are. So, for that reason it was good to pick up on what others are doing and take on-board useful learnings. Getting the chance to meet several industry leaders was another highlight. The whole competition has motivated me to set some future goals and work hard to achieve them."

Finn Eden, 2021 Upper South Island Regional Winner

"The competition has given me useful skills that I'll carry with me throughout my building career. Although there was exceptional time pressure, I still consider it to be one of the best experiences and learning moments during my apprenticeship."

Joshua Fraser, Third Place National Finalist 2021 Apprentice of the Year.

EMPLOYERS

Apprentice of the Year also celebrates your employer, for investing in apprentices and giving back to the industry. It showcases what a great employer looks like and the benefits to their business of mentoring the sector's talent.

What's in it for your employer?

- Recognition as a leading employer for helping their apprentice realise their potential
- Meet industry leaders and get acknowledged for the role they play in the industry's future
- Attract talent by showing they value staff and the future of the industry
- Get exposure for their business for having a top apprentice
- Be in the running for an Employers Award for mentoring a winning apprentice

MYTH BUSTERS

Does my employer have to be a Registered Master Builders Member for me to enter the competition?

NO: You can have your apprenticeship with any builder – they DO NOT have to be a member of Master Builders.

Do you have to be trained through BCITO | Te Pukenga?

NO: You can be trained by any appropriate training provider.

WHAT'S IN IT FOR THE EMPLOYER?

"As an employer I'd probably encourage other employers to get their young fellas in on the competition. Firstly, there are so many benefits they gain from being in the competition. Not only tips, but also getting to know people and the experience. Even if they don't win, there is so much to be gained, winning is just the icing on the cake really. Secondly, it's a great marketing opportunity. It's all over social media, so it's really good, free marketing for the company."

Chris Keane - Keane Building, Employer Finalist Corrigan Harnett.

Dane's employer Nigel Strickett credits Stephen Nicholson from BCITO as the person who strongly encouraged Dane to enter the competition: "Stephen did a great job of encouraging Dane to enter. Given the ups and downs of the last couple of years, as a business owner it wasn't something that was top of mind for me. However, after seeing how awesome the competition is I'm going to encourage more apprentices in the future."

Nigel Strickett - Coastal Concepts
